

Qingge Li, Ph.D, Professor of molecular diagnostics, Department of Biomedical Sciences, School of Life Sciences, Xiamen University, has focused on the development of novel techniques for molecular diagnostics in a variety of applications. He is the corresponding author of over 50 papers and the inventor of more than 20 patents. His major work is development of mutation detection strategies and genotyping methods based on real-time PCR.